

With the recent ability to add long distance service to their roster, the LECs are consolidating their dominant position at a time when the competition is weak. It would be a bad thing to lift the classification.